ABOUT OBESE 2025

The International Conference on Obesity (Hybrid Event) is set to take place on November 20-22, 2025 in Singapore and Online which brings together leading experts, researchers, clinicians, and policymakers for an in-depth exploration of obesity prevention, management, and treatment. With the global prevalence of obesity on the rise, this conference will address the multifaceted challenges and potential solutions in the field. Sessions will cover a broad spectrum of topics, where speakers will discuss prevalence data and examine contributing factors such as genetics, socioeconomic conditions, and environmental influences. In addition, cutting-edge research on the biological and environmental factors that play roles in obesity will delve into genetic predispositions, hormonal imbalances, and lifestyle factors that affect weight.

Further, the conference will address the relationship between obesity and other health conditions such as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and cancer, underscoring the need for holistic and integrated patient care. With its combination of keynote addresses, panel discussions, oral and poster sessions, OBESE 2025 will provide participants with valuable insights and strategies to combat obesity and improve population health worldwide.

We look forward to welcoming you to OBESE 2025 for an enriching and empowering experience in obesity science and care!
